

Each Reach Teach 1

Maya Angelou Public Charter School needs YOU as a Volunteer Tutor

The evening tutoring program at Maya Angelou Public Charter School (MAPCS) provides students with one-on-one help on homework, projects and educational planning.

MAPCS needs volunteers to act as tutors and mentors, providing instruction, guidance and support.

As a volunteer, you will get to know a young person as you provide important advice and encouragement.

Students benefit academically from having a tutor from whom they can receive individualized attention, and with whom they can develop a rapport;

You benefit from forging a relationship with a young person in your community; and

MAPCS benefits from a solid evening program that reinforces the educational values we work to instill in our students.

MAPCS'S MISSION is to create learning environments in lower income urban communities where teens, particularly those who have not succeeded in traditional schools, can reach their potential.

At Maya Angelou Public Charter School, our students develop the academic, social and employment skills that they need to build rewarding lives and promote positive change in their communities.
